RF transmit element with several stacked components (only two are shown). This corresponds to one transmitter unit.

At these times, the coded (FEC) bits are used to select the channel state.